Tap Mitchell's Phone?

I hope that the Supreme Court will not fall prey to the fallacious argument presented by Attorney General John Mitchell and allow evidence obtained through illegal wiretapping to be used as evidence against domestic radicals.

It might be incumbent on Mr. Mitchell to consider the fact that he, too, is considered by many to be a domestic radical, and therefore subject to the same treatment. Personally, I consider Mr. Mitchell one of the foremost threats to the American way of life. Perhaps those whose views agree with mine should take Mr. Mitchell at his word and tap his phone, take him to court, and attempt to use what information they may glean against him. He may feel that he has nothing to hide, but I am sure something could be found.
